

Monitoring & Forecasting Keeps Stakeholders “In the Know”

Many healthcare and life sciences industry stakeholders often wish they knew about pending laws before they are enacted, why a new regulation was drafted the way it was, or why they are being asked about information from a supply chain partner on an issue they knew nothing about. Not being “in the know” raises the risk of being unprepared for an emerging law or regulation and can also hurt a business’ bottom line.

Frier Levitt Government Affairs (FLGA) offers a hybrid service flexible with an organization’s changing needs. FLGA monitors and forecasts issues of importance for healthcare and life sciences stakeholders, including state and federal legislation and regulation, all presented in a concise, easy to understand and time friendly format. FLGA’s monitoring and forecasting services allow stakeholders to stay educated and engaged on new developments before the trends become mainstream.

With laws and regulations changing all the time, it is imperative for healthcare and life sciences stakeholders and organizations to be proactive instead of reactive. Contact Frier Levitt Government Affairs today to get “in the know” and finally be prepared for the changes ahead.
